FRENCH MISSION ON THEIR WAY EASTWARD

RESUMED TRIP THIS MORNING
AFTER WRECK DELAYED
SPECIAL TRAIN.

NONE OF PARTY WAS INJURED

Three Cars Left the Rails, But Dinner,
In Which Visitors Rode,
Stayed On.

(Associated Press)
Terra Haute, Ind., May 8.—Members of the French mission, which spent the night at Ellettsburg, Ill., after a wreck at Arcola had upset their schedule, resumed their journey east today. None felt any ill effects of the jar when three cars of the train left the rails, due to an accident.
Secret service men said the wheel flange of the tender of one of the engines cut the nuts off a fishplate and permitted the rails to spread. Gen. Joffre, Viviani and the others were dining at the time of the mishap.

Tender and Three Cars Derailed.
The tender of the second locomotive of the "double header" first suddenly left the rails. The baggage car, immediately behind, lurched over on its side and fell crosswise on the rails, a tangled mass.

The Pullman car, bearing newspaper correspondents, immediately behind the baggage car, smashed into the baggage car and left the rails but did not turn over. The dining car, next behind, left the tracks with a crash, but the compartment car in which the secret service men were riding and the observation car quartermaster General Joffre and Vice Premier Viviani remained on the rails.

General Joffre and R. Viviani were at dinner when the crash came. The dishes on the table before them were hurled into their laps.

General Joffre was thrown back in his seat but recovered his poise in a moment and rising, peered out the window into the gathering darkness. Neither he nor Viviani betrayed the slightest trace of excitement.

Think Wreck Accident.

The secret service, scenting a plot, rushed into the dining car and escorted General Joffre and M. Viviani into the observation car in the rear. Then they leaped from the observation platform and ran down the track to see what had happened, after first advising Joffre and Viviani to remain in the car.

Curiosity got the better of the hero of the Marne, however. He swung down the steps and accompanied by Viviani picked his way along the muddy track to the spot where the wrecked dining car lay on its side. He watched while the secret service men, with members of the train crew, examined by lantern light every section of the 300 feet of rails ripped up and twisted.

The preliminary investigation led members of the train crew to believe that a pin or heavy bolt had worked itself loose from the bottom of the tender of the second locomotive and had dragged along until it finally caught in a rail joint, wrenching the rail loose as the train sped on.

WILL DEMONSTRATE SINGING LESSONS

EXPERTS FROM LYON & HEALY
WILL APPEAR IN DIXON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Theo J. Miller & Sons have issued invitations to a special lecture-demonstration of the Oscar Sanger Course of Vocal Training, which reveals the possibilities of the Victrola in an exceptional and delightful manner at recital hall in the Odd Fellows building Friday afternoon, May 11, at 3:30 o'clock. The program will be given by Wm. H. Nola, Victrola lecturer, and Miss Louise Sutton, demonstrating artist, both from Lyon & Healy, Chicago. Mr. Nolan was for several years educational lecturer for the Victor Talking Machine Co., completing his services with them with four months of lecture work at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco. Miss Sutton will give artistic illustrations of the various exercises and lessons in the Sanger course, and she will also sing several solos, using the Victrola as an accompanying instrument.

L. Sarver of Route 4 was in town Monday.

Flag Thief Makes Appearance Here; Anger Of Authorities Is Aroused

Officials are looking for the perpetrator of the most contemptible and smallest bit of vandalism in the recent history of Dixon—the theft of an American flag. It is hard to conceive that anyone, unless that one be an out-and-out Kaiser booster (and there are a few in Dixon, to this city's everlasting shame), would steal Old Glory when it has been publicly displayed.

But an instance has been reported to the police by Miss Anna Meade, ticket agent at the Illinois central depot. The handsome flag

$1,000 INCOMES TO BE HIT

Washington, May 8.—Incomes of all Americans earning above $1,000 for single men and $2,000 for married men are to do their bit towards raising $1,800,000,000 of taxes included in a revenue bill reported by the house ways and means committee.
Incomes of $500,000 or more are to pay a new tax of 33 per cent, it is understood—a total tax including normal and surtaxes, of from 45 to 50 per cent.

AMERICAN VESSELS SUPPLIED U-BOATS

JESSELS OF AMERICAN TRANS-
ATLANTIC LINE HELD BY GOVERNMENT.

MEMBERS OF CREW SAY SO

(Associated Press)
Washington, May 8.—The government is investigating the activities of the steamer Manitowoc and other vessels of the American Transatlantic Co., said to have carried supplies to German submarines in the Atlantic, according to disclosures made by the navy department today. The company has offices in New York and Boston and its vessels fly the American flag. The company's vessels are being held at St. Thomas, Virgin Island, for investigation.

San Juan, May 8.—According to members of the crew of the Manitowoc that vessel and others belonging to the same company, have been supplying fuel and food from the United States to German submarines on the high seas.

TURKS DRIVE 8,000 JEWS OUT OF JAFFA

All Are Compelled to Leave
Their Homes and Flee.

New York, May 8.—The entire Jewish population of Jaffa, Palestine, about 8,000 men, women and children of many nationalities, were forced by the Turks on April 1 to evacuate their homes and flee from the city, according to a cablegram received here by the provisional executive committee for general Zionist affairs. The roads leading from Jaffa were thronged with starving people, some dying by the roadside, and mutilated bodies of rich Jews were found on the sand dunes, the message said.

Two Jews were hanged "as an indication of the fate in store for any Jews who might be so foolhardy" as to oppose looters, Bedouin Turks and women sacked the Jewish homes while the dwellers were departing and all valuables were stolen.

Mohammedans and Christians were allowed to remain if they had individual permits, the cablegram said, but all Jews, even those who were Austrian, Hungarian, Bulgarian and German, were ordered out.

BILLION DOLLARS TO BUILD MERCHANTMEN

CONGRESS WILL BE ASKED TO APPROPRIATE THAT SUM
SOON.

(Associated Press)
Washington, May 8.—Congress will be asked to appropriate $1,000,000,000 for building a great American merchant fleet to overcome the submarine menace. The shipping board contemplated the diversion to government uses of every steel mill in the country, the cancellation of existing contracts between the mills and private consumers and, where necessary, the payment of damages by the government to parties whose contracts are cancelled. It is estimated that between five and six million tons of steel and wooden vessels will be constructed by the government within the next two years.

Alfred Tourtillott was here from South Dixon Monday.

SMALLEST YIELD SINCE
1904.

(Associated Press)

Chicago, May 8.—May wheat sold for $3 a bushel, the highest price on record.

Agree on Canada Wheat Control.

Winnipeg, Man., May 8.—Negotiations which have been in progress for more than a week between grain men, milling and elevator interests, railroads and government agents have resulted in an understanding that at least 90 per cent of all wheat will be sold to the allied governments or to Canadian mills, according to a cablegram from the Winnipeg grain exchange council to the royal grain commission in London, made public. The agreement provides for the liquidation of May and July. On contracts all grades of millable wheat will be tenderable at spreads agreed on by a special committee on behalf of the various interests.

JEANGUENOT HELD TO COMING GRAND JURY

$500 BOND FURNISHED BY HIS FATHER, WHO WILL TAKE BOY HOME.

A. C. Jeanguenot, the Compton youth whose habit of passing worthless checks resulted in his arrest last week the second time within six months, was last evening arraigned before Justice Hanneken and bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $500. His father furnished the bond and has agreed to take the boy to his farm near Compton and put him to work. Justice Hanneken, who represented the youth at the time of his former arrest and who secured a minimum sentence of 30 days for him at that time, gave him a sound lecture in binding him over. Attorney Grover Gehant represented the boy at yesterday's hearing.

TO TRAINING CAMP

Sherwood Dixon, who has been attending Notre Dame university, came home last evening for a short visit with his parents, Attorney and Mrs. Henry S. Dixon, preparatory to entering the U. S. Army officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Keeps Bread Fresh.

A method of preventing the staling of bread was described by Arnold Wahl at a meeting of the American Chemical society. It consists in cooling the bread, after baking, in an atmosphere of carbon dioxide, freshly produced for the purpose by fermentation. Bread cooled in ordinary air becomes stale in a few hours, owing to oxidation of the protein by the air absorbed in its pores, while bread cooled in an atmosphere of carbon dioxide remains fresh for several weeks, because oxidation is prevented.

GOD BLESS THE FLAG!

Washed in the blood of the brave and the blooming,
Snatched from the altars of insolent foes,
Burning with star fires, but never consuming
Flash its broad ribbons of lily and rose.

Vainly the prophets of Baal would rend it,
Vainly his worshippers pray for its fall;
Thousands have died for it, millions defend it,
Emblem of justice and mercy to all.

Justice that reddens the sky with her terrors,
Mercy that comes with her white-handed train,
Soothing all passions, redeeming all errors,
Sheathing the sabre and breaking the chain.

Born on the deluge of old usurpations,
Drifted our Ark o'er the desolate seas,
Bearing the rainbow of hope to the nations,
Torn from the storm-cloud and flung to the breeze

God bless the flag and its loyal defenders,
While its broad folds o'er the battlefield wave,
Till the dim star-wreath rekindle its splendors,
Washed from its stains in the blood of the brave.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

HERE'S HOW TO FLY OLD GLORY.

(By United Press)

Washington, May 8.—For the guidance of puzzled patriots the War Department has prescribed this simple formula for hanging the American flag as it should be hung. Wherever possible hang the flag from a staff, and not against the wall; use bunting for the wall. If, however, a flag is hung against a wall, the field of stars should be always to the north—on a north and south street, and to the east on an east and west street; never hang it horizontally, if possible to hang it otherwise, but if hung horizontally, the end containing the stars should be at the north or east. Army regulations call for the flag to fly from sunrise to sunset, but it is optional with the individual whether it shall fly at night.

KAISERS MUST GO, SAYS TAFT

Declares America is in War to Relegate Despotism to the Rear.

New York, May 8.—Former President Taft, in an address here on the aims of the League to Enforce Peace, declared that nothing can be accomplished permanently for peace until Emperor William of Germany and Emperor Charles of Austria "have been relegated to the rear."

"We are in the war," asserted Mr. Taft, "to say: Mr. Hohenzollern and Mr. Hapsburg, you've got to get out the same as Mr. Romanoff got out, so we can have peace in the world. We don't intend to abolish the war," he said, "but to make it as improbable as human nature will permit."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haley were here Saturday from Walton.

T. R. ARMY PLAN IS BLOCKED

Conferees Said to Have Rejected Provision for His German Invasion.

Washington, May 8.—That the so-called Roosevelt division amendment to the conscription bill will not be favorably reported by house and senate conferees on the measure seemed certain.

One member of the committee declared the house conferees would not accept the amendment and a majority of the senate conferees are opposed to it. If the bill is reported out without the amendment there will be a lively fight on the floor of the senate. Senators Harding and Johnson are prepared to continue their struggle on the floor to get Roosevelt into France with an army, and they appear to have many of the senators with them.

THREE NEAR INJURY IN WILD RUNAWAY

BERT RIZNER'S TEAM STAGED A SENSATIONAL DASH THRU
ALLEY.

WRECKED BUGGY AND WAGONS

Mrs. D. M. Rosstter and grandson Otto, and Bert Rizner, who lives south of the city, had narrow escapes from serious injury or death at 4:20 o'clock Monday afternoon when Rizner's team, hitched to a wagon loaded with fence posts, staged a mad run-away from the Wilbur lumber yards east through Commercial alley to Calena avenue, a lumber wagon belonging to Joseph Hodge, standing in the alley at the rear of the Howell hardware store, bringing the terrified animals to a stop and badly damaging both wagons.

Mr. Rizner was standing near the team when it started to run at the lumber yards and he managed to grasp one of the bridles, but the lunging horses shook him off and ran over him, the laden wagon passing over one of his legs. Fortunately the hoofs did not strike him and the heavy wagon did not inflict serious injury to his leg.

Mrs. Rosstter and the boy were seated in a buggy a short distance east of the lumber yard when the runaway team bore down on them, the wagon struck the buggy, threw both occupants out and wrecked the vehicle. Mrs. Rosstter and the child were uninjured.

TOWN'S MOST POLITE BOY WILL WIN PRIZE

ANNOUNCEMENT is made at Marine of a contest to be conducted until June 1 to determine the most polite schoolboy in the place.

Marine has conducted a number of unusual contests in the past to beautify its city and improve the conditions. Somebody, whose name is withheld, has appointed a committee of several residents. Under the plan, their names will never be made public. The boy declared the most polite will receive a prize.

The plan was announced in the various churches and was repeated in the schools. The committee will keep the boys under surveillance, making notes on their acts of kindness.

RECORD OF HIGHWAY TRAVEL

DeKalb, May 8.—The startling increase in traffic on the Lincoln Highway is a matter of such wide interest that plans are being considered by the State Highway association for taking a traffic census at some point on the road in Illinois this summer. Local traffic will be listed separately from tourist traffic and the results are being awaited with interest. A definite date for the taking of the census has not been decided upon.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND NEAR CLIPPER PLANT

MRS. LEONA DECKER STRICKEN
WHILE ON WAY HOME LAST EVENING.

R.K. ORTT FOUND REMAINS

Discovered Dead Body Fallen Against Coal Sheds Early This Morning.

Mrs. Leona Decker, who resides south of the Northwestern passenger station, was found dead east of the coal sheds near the Clipper Lawn Mower factory at 7 o'clock this morning by R. K. Ortt, president of that company, while he was on his way to the plant. The woman had evidently been stricken with apoplexy while en route home from her work at the Manhattan cafe. She had fallen to her knees and her body had pitched sideways and leaned against a coal shed.

It was apparent also that she had been dead for many hours for the body had turned blue and was cold. Mr. Ortt at once notified the police department, who had the body removed to the Morris & Preston morgue, where Coroner S. J. Wheaton conducted an inquest this morning. The jurors being W. W. Phillips, W. W. Woolley, Geo. W. Knox, Geo. W. Eichenberg, R. L. Zarger and F. W. Harek. A verdict of death by natural causes was returned.

Stricken Suddenly.

Mrs. Decker, who had been employed as dish washer at the Manhattan for some time, had worked Monday and was apparently in usual good health. She finished her work at 7 o'clock and left the restaurant. Her son Ernest, with whom she made her home, and his wife thought nothing of her absence from home, as she had told them she intended to visit with a friend in the west end before returning home, and accordingly they retired. This morning they were shocked to be notified of her sudden death.

Mrs. Decker, whose husband, Wm. Decker, is now serving a term in the penitentiary for rape, had been estranged from him for some time, and until recently had lived in Sycamore. She was 41 years of age and is survived only by her husband and son, Ernest.

G. A. R. Circle
 The Ladies of the Grand Army held a particularly busy and interesting session Monday afternoon in J. A. R. hall. The case of two soldiers' widows was brought up and preparations made for caring for them. The recent dancing and card party, in which the public was so generous in its patronage, was discussed. The ladies cleared about $75 dollars and are very grateful to the public in aiding them so substantially in their charity fund. $5 was voted by the circle to be given to the Red Cross for the purchase of yarn to be used in knitting socks for the soldier boys. The ladies are grieving over the stealing of a flag from the Dixon I. C. depot, which they presented but a few weeks ago. The date of the G. A. R. Circle convention was announced as June 6-8 at Bloomington and preparations made for sending delegates.

THREE GENERATIONS OF WOMEN

The young women of this generation, their mothers and grandmothers have proved from actual experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes the suffering caused by female ills and restores them to a healthy condition. This famous medicine contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs; it is made from medicinal roots and herbs, nature's remedy for disease. If you are suffering from any form of female ills, it will pay you to give it a trial.

Juice of Lemons!
 How to Make Skin
 White and Beautiful

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp sets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows the lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as sallowness, freckles and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smootheners and beautifier.
 Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful to smooth even rough, red hands.

18,000 CALLED TO AID FRANCE

9 Regiments of Engineers to Be Recruited in U. S.

THEY WILL BE EXTRA UNITS

New Units Will Be First Expeditionary Force to Set Foot on French Soil—Not in Any Way Connected With Army Organization Plan of War Department.

Washington, May 8.—The war department announced that orders had been sent out for the raising of nine regiments of engineers for duty at the earliest possible moment on the communication lines in France. These troops will be in addition to the forces contemplated in the administration's army plans.

Recruiting points for the regiments will be New York city, St. Louis, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Atlanta, San Francisco and Philadelphia. Text of Department Order.

The department's statement follows: "The war department has sent out orders for the raising as rapidly as possible of nine additional regiments of engineers which are destined to proceed to France at the earliest possible moment for work in lines of communication. It is requested of the press that no speculation or rumors regarding this force be carried other than that given out. All details regarding the force will be given out as fast as compatible with the best public interests."

It was explained that these engineer forces were not in any way connected with the army organization planned by the war department and already made known. They represent an addition to the total military preparedness program upon which the country is now engaged.

Will Be Additional Units.

In effect the regiments will be additional technical units of the army which the administration will authorize the President to organize in whatever numbers and on whatever plans he deems best. The strength of an engineer regiment is approximately 2,000 men, which would make a total of 18,000 men to be assembled in the new force. As it is specified the troops are for use on communication lines, presumably on railways, highways and telephone and telegraph lines, it is assumed that the men will be drawn as far as possible from railway employees and the forces of the telegraph and telephone companies.

GERMAN AIRPLANE IN RAPID LONDON RAID

Drops Bombs on Northeastern Outskirts of City.

London, May 8.—A hostile airplane dropped four bombs on outskirts of London, it is officially announced. No one in the area where the German airplane dropped bombs saw anything of the hostile machine. The people were awakened by the explosions, but by the time they reached the street the machine had disappeared. The bomb which caused the casualties fell on the roof of some residence buildings and the other missiles landed in a near by swamp.

MEAT OF THE NUTS

THAT WISE MEN CRACK

Just Average.

Every once in a while we see some young man step out of the ranks and accomplish something worth while.

Why don't we see it more frequently?

Why are so many men just "average men?"

Did you ever stop to think what it means to be just an "Average Man?" Government reports tell us that the average yield of wheat per acre in this country is 17 bushels.

The maximum yield is 118 bushels.

The average yield of oats is 35 bushels.

The maximum yield is 182 bushels.

The potato crop shows an average yield of 79 bushels to the acre, while the maximum yield is 790 bushels.

If the government were making reports on the all round efficiency of men, the figures would be even more startling than are the crop statistics.

And it may be that we can get an angle on the man problem by an analytical study of the crop problem.

We are apt to say, when we hear of surprisingly big crop yields just as we say when a man climbs out from among the great mass of his fellows and accomplishes something worth while—"There certainly must have been a lot of favoring circumstances."

In so far as crops are concerned, however, that is not true.

Favoring circumstances don't appear to have much to do with it.

If they did, we would find the maximum yields down in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, or in the rich corn belt of the middle west.

Instead of that we find them in almost every instance in the frontier sections where the land has to be cleared and blasted and fertilized and watered before it will yield anything at all.

The maximum yields are the result—not of rich soil and favoring climate—but of indomitable courage and intellect, persevering hard work on the part of the farmer.

Nature is always ready to do her part, but it is only when the man gets into the game with all the intelligence and energy God has given him that the really big crops come.

And this is just as true in the realm of industry as it is on the farm. About two men out of every hundred ever accomplish anything worth while.

The other 98 plod along in the dull monotonous even tenor of their way. They are the "Average Man."

If they are farmers they are raising average crops, simply because they are not willing to pay the price in labor and forethought for maximum yields.

If they are in business or commerce or one of the professions, they are producing average results for the same identical reason.

They are not willing to pay the price.

Every once in a while some one forces his way out of the ranks, and the rest of us say—"Gee, some people are lucky."

Then we go to sleep again and dream of the happy time when our ship will come sailing in from the land of luck.

But it will never come.

We live and die just average men—because we are not willing to pay the price of achievement.—The Link.

RUSS CUT OUT FRATERNIZING

General Gurko Says Practice Allows Enemy to Learn Troop Movements.

Petrograd, May 8.—General Gurko, commander on the western front, has issued an order declaring that the fraternizing of Russians with the enemy troops must be stopped.

He declares that such fraternizing, which has become a common practice, enables the enemy to learn Russian military dispositions, and also, by causing a lull on the Russian front, leaves the Germans free to concentrate forces against the British and French. General Gurko warns the troops that if the fighting comes to a standstill in France the Germans will throw all their forces against the Russians, who, lulled by promises of peace, will not be in readiness to repel the attack. He says that three divisions of Germans already have been transferred from the Russian front and that others are following, including artillery and aircraft.

GERMAN SHIP OWNERS WIN

Not Liable for Failure to Deliver When War Intervened.

Washington, May 8.—New York banks lost their litigation in the supreme court against the North German Lloyd liner, Kronprinzessin Cecilie, at Boston, in which they claimed $2,240,000 damages for failure of the vessel to deliver gold bullion worth $11,000,000 shipped to England and France just at the outbreak of the war.

The Cecilie, the supreme court decided, it not liable in damages to the shippers for turning back to America in midocean and abandoning her voyage. The decision determines large similar claims against a score of other German vessels in American ports. Justice Holmes delivered the decision. Justices Pitney and Clark dissented.

The property loss will total several millions of dollars. The cause of the explosion is a mystery. It is believed not unlikely that it was due to a spy plot.

The Price Of Good Clothes

EVERY DAY we have customers ask us about the advanced cost of clothing. Our answer is always the same. "Clothing is worth more than it was two years ago but not enough to be noticeable to the average buyer."

This condition exists with our present stock but for Fall and thereafter you will notice sharp advances. This country is producing less than half of the wool used here and with practically all outside sources unavailable and the government equipping a million men for active service, a big shortage of wool is the result.

Here at this store you'll find the same high standard of good clothes that you always have at reasonable prices. Our advance purchases have been very heavy and we are giving you the benefit of our foresight.

A Famous Hymn.

Mrs. Sarah Flower Adams wrote the famous hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Mrs. Adams was an Englishwoman, born in 1805. She was a writer of note in the periodicals of the time, and she also composed a catechism for children which was published in 1845. Just at what time and under what circumstances the hymn was written is not known. It was first published in 1841, but the author did not live to know the fame the authorship brought her. She died at forty-one, and since that time the lines she penned have sung themselves into the hearts of untold millions the world over.

"Bishop of the Philistines."

Dr. Brent, bishop of the Philippines, is one of the most learned prelates of the American church. He has repeatedly declined promotion to important bishoprics, including that of Washington, because he prefers a missionary life and his present difficult diocese. The unfamiliar title he bears has sometimes created a comic confusion which appealed to his keen sense of humor during visits to England. He was once styled "bishop of the Philistines." On another occasion a flunky furnished some sensation for a west end drawing room by announcing the "lord bishop of the Philistines."—Westminster Gazette.

MISGUIDED THRIFT.

"One of the greatest dangers that confronts us now is misguided thrift," declares a statement issued today by S. W. Straus, President of the American Society for Thrift.

"In our efforts to be patriotically economical we find ourselves going to extremes in the opposite direction, which is as great a menace as wastefulness and extravagance," said he. "One of the worst calamities that could befall our nation at any time would be to stop the wheels of industry, but now more especially.

"The point is to differentiate between destructive and constructive thrift. In times of peace or war, waste is reprehensible, but indiscriminate tight-fistedness is worse, because in such conditions the provident are made to suffer with the improvident.

"Because this whole nation suddenly has become conscious of the necessity of thrift, we as individuals should take care not to deflect from their normal courses the tides of the nation's money that turns the wheels of industry. America as a nation is not in danger of running short of money, but we are threatened with a food shortage because on us rests the duty and responsibility of feeding our allies.

"All can distinguish the difference between prudent living and wastefulness. If a man buys a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes or a hat his money goes into legitimate circulation and furnishes uses for capital and employment of labor.

"The American people have responded in a grand way to the needs of the hour. We are going to conserve our resources and increase our food supply in a way that will astonish the world, but in doing this we face hardships unless each individual is governed by common sense, prudence and foresight.

"In brief, administer your expenditures in a clean, honest, legitimate and patriotic manner. Eliminate waste of food, bearing in mind that every mouthful you save may be the sustenance of some starving fellow-human abroad. We should not tear down on one hand while we are trying to build up on the other. Those in business should not hesitate; be courageous and keep on going. America has everything to make herself prosperous. The billions of dollars for war purposes will eventually return into the pockets of the people. Even the money which we loan to our allies is being spent immediately in America. The national bond issue means that for some time this country will be paying back the obligations incurred today. America is still in the midst of the greatest era of material prosperity the country has ever known.

"In the matter of individual expenditure every man should be guided by his own necessities and the needs of his country. Let none of us be a slacker in the business world. This is no day for the coward or weakling. Be brave and confident. Remember, the most acute need of our nation today is intelligent, productive, constructive thrift."

GERMAN PEACE FACTIONS.

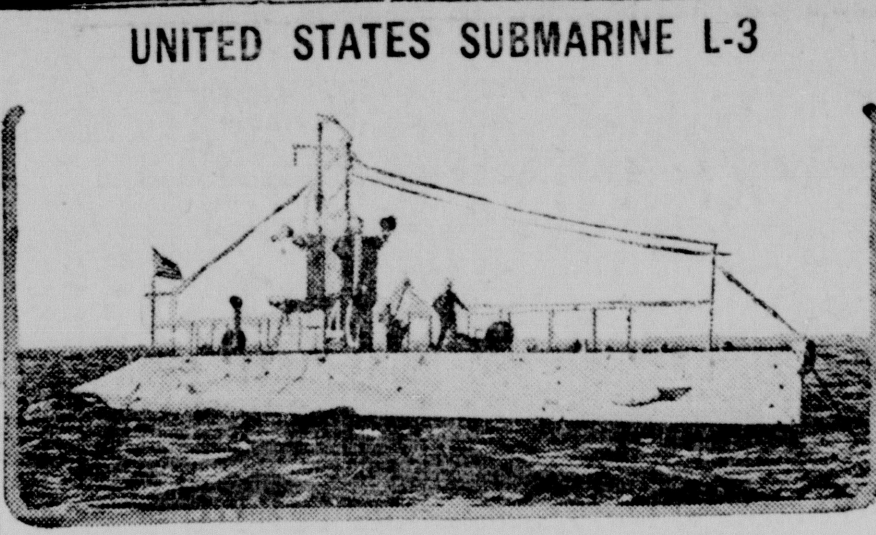

The expected pronouncement of a government peace program by the German chancellor in the reichstag following May day did not materialize. The explanation of this failure was shouldered by the socialist party faction which is supposed to be working with the government, which announced it was not prepared to take the step of calling for the terms of peace.

The angry discussion which has followed this failure has not been mitigated by the absence of an official statement. The landed aristocracy and industrial magnates have seized the opportunity to declare that there shall be no peace until Germany is accorded possession of the Belgian coast, the iron and coal mines of France and the territory of Poland. The latter is referred to in veiled terms, but that is what is meant. In addition the secretary of foreign affairs, Zimmerman, hails the entrance of the United States in the war as the basis for the German demand for an indemnity of billions, which the United States is held rich enough to provide. Thus the lines are laid down. Fighting for annexation and an indemnity is charged by one of the socialist leaders, who ask if the Fatherland is to go on sacrificing its sons merely to fill its pockets with gold.

It is construed on the outside that instead of deferring the time of announcing terms the chancellor has made it all the more imperative that he declare the position of the government on the peace conditions it is prepared to accept. It is the immediate interpretation, however, that the success of the submarine war has revived the spirits and expectations of the elements which maneuvered to bring on the war.—Rockford Register-Gazette.

If it makes your back ache to spade a garden, think how much pleasanter it is than digging trenches. Most anything can be made to look better, or worse, by comparison.

RUTH LAW WANTS TO FIGHT GERMANS

"I Am at the Service of My Country," She Says.

INSISTS ON DUTY AT FRONT

Diminutive Aviator, Back From Trip to England and France, Says Our Aeroplanes Are Too Heavy—Praise For Young Men Who Have Turned Out For Aviation Training.

"I am at the service of my country for flying duty at any moment I may be called upon," said Miss Ruth Law, aviator, as she came into port after several months spent in England and France observing the latest methods of using aeroplanes in warfare.

"I am willing to fly a fast little scout machine alone, traveling 120 or 150 miles an hour, or I'll drive a heavier machine carrying a gun and gunner and go into actual battle with the enemy," added the diminutive holder of the Chicago-New York flight record.

"That's what I'd like to do more than anything—get right into the fight."

"The only request I shall make of the government when I offer my services formally is that I be sent to the front, wherever it is. Above all things I'd like to go to the front in France if America sends any soldiers over there."

"If we have a woman congressman, why can't we have a woman fighting aviator?" she demanded.

Record Shows Her Ability.

Of Miss Law's ability there is no question. Her performances prove that. She holds the altitude mark for a woman—nearly 12,000 feet—and the cross-country American record for either sex.

"I am arranging to get a Morane-Saulnier monoplane from France and am willing to enter it in the service of the United States," Miss Law continued. "That is the fastest plane in use in Europe. I had a flight over Paris in a two seater with Robert Morane, the inventor. I thought I had flown fast before, but my eyes were opened by the speed of that bus."

The little queen of the air was enthusiastic in her praise of the way in which young men of England and France had turned out for aviation training. She displayed a picture of one of the French fields at Le Bourget, near Paris, where there are 150 hangars and 100 machines in each hangar. "I never dreamed there were so many aeroplanes in the world," she said. "Why, they buzz over the city of Paris almost like mosquitoes."

"You'll see a big triplane carrying a crew of three or four men and a three inch gun, surrounded by twenty or thirty fast little planes armed with machine guns to protect the big fellows."

Met the Famous Guynemer.

Miss Law tried to get to the fighting front, but was permitted no farther than Compiègne, close to where the Germans were turned away from their march toward Paris early in the war.

"I met all the boys of the Lafayette escadrille, the American flying group," she said, "and I had the privilege of chatting with the greatest fighting flier of all, Lieutenant Guynemer, who has shot down more than thirty fliers. He gave me a ring fashioned from the button of a German airman's coat."

Comparing the foreign aeroplanes with those in use here, Miss Law said ours are entirely too heavy. The English and French machines are very much lighter and therefore easier to handle and capable of far greater speed.

"Just think of those Morane machines getting up 6,000 feet in seven minutes," she said. "Many of them can climb almost a thousand feet a minute, and it took me an hour and a half to get up to 12,000 with my little old biplane when I made the altitude record. Our materials and bodies should be refined and lightened."

The little aviator said American men by the thousands ought to be turning out for air service right now, particularly for coast defense duty.

"I saw a wonderful new bit of trick flying at Le Bourget," she went on. "It is a stunt called 'le vrille' (the gimlet). While the machine is on a level the head stands still, and then the tail whirrs around and around. It is done by jamming the rudders. But with all the fancy flying I saw I still believe the best trick aviator I ever beheld was Lincoln Beachey, our own Yankee boy."

Miss Law brought back with her a French trench dog called Polli, who saw much actual fighting and was wounded several times. He wears a miniature steel helmet.

KAISER IS SICK.

London Hears From United States Bankers That Condition Is Serious.

The London Morning Post printed a cablegram from its Washington correspondent saying that Emperor William is fatally ill with Bright's disease and that his death "will occur within a few months." This information, it was said, was secured from German-American bankers in the United States.

The emperor, according to the correspondent's informant, has for some months past been in the depths of depression. The efforts of his physicians and entourage to rally him have been so unsuccessful and the disease has so completely fastened itself upon him that recovery is impossible, the report states.

When a Man Is Most Efficient.

In the American Magazine Dean Herman Schneider of the School of Engineering of the University of Cincinnati says:

"A man is most efficient when he is doing the work that gives him the greatest satisfaction. From the laborer to the business executive, every man should get three things out of work—a decent living, development and discipline and satisfaction in the doing."

"If your job gives these to you give back to it the best work of your hand and brain. If it fails to give you these face the fact that you are a misfit and seek your appointed place. You have no right to let life remain separated from its two handmaids—liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Animals and Rhythm.

Animals have no sense of rhythm, though they may be taught to "dance." This is the announcement of Dr. Craig of the University of Maine. "Horses driven in span," he says in the Guide to Nature, "make no attempt to step together. Two birds, however, sweetly they sing solo, never sing in time with one another nor with any other music. Even the so-called dancing animals of the circus get their rhythm from the trainer, not from the tune."

A Telescope His Tomb.

After Keeler had become head of the Lick observatory and died there and his ashes were brought back to Allegheny for burial it was his friend Brashear who sealed them up in their last resting place, a hollow in the supporting pillar of the thirty inch reflector, which is Keeler's memorial.

Earthquakes.

Earthquakes are subterranean disturbances propagated through the earth in a series of elastic waves. How they originate is not clearly known. Many are associated with volcanic action, while just as many occur without any evidence of such association.

WIFE'S RELIEF CAUSES ACTION

W. Glassbrenner Praises Tanlac for Relief It Brought Her

Alton, Ill., May 7.—Out of gratitude for his wife's relief through taking Tanlac, the celebrated new medicine, W. Glassbrenner, a well known Alton Barber, of 219 Plazo street, made the following statement on April 17.

"My wife was so nervous that she couldn't sleep at night," he said. "The nervousness caused her to be bothered with poor circulation, especially in her limbs. It seemed that her circulation would stop when she would lie down."

"So many local persons spoke so highly of Tanlac that my wife finally decided to try it. Well sir, the nervousness entirely disappeared, since she's taken Tanlac. She sleeps soundly and peacefully all night. Poor circulation never bothers her any more."

"Tanalac has done so much good for my wife that I feel I should recommend the medicine to others. It certainly has proven a worthy preparation in Mrs. Glassbrenner's case."

Tanalac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, loss of appetite, catarrhal complaints, nervousness and the like."

Tanalac is being introduced and explained in Dixon at Campbell & Sons' Drug Store.

KAZAN

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Kazan, the wild sledge dog, one-quarter wolf and three-quarters husky, distrustful of all men because of their brutal treatment of him, learns to love his master's wife when she is kind to him in new and strange surroundings.

CHAPTER II—He shows snarling enmity to McCready, who is to accompany Thorpe and his wife to the Red River camp.

CHAPTER III—Kazan knows that McCready is a murderer. McCready stealthily carries Isabel's hair and Kazan attacks him. Thorpe whips Kazan. McCready tries to murder Thorpe and attacks Isabel. Kazan kills him and then, fearing the club in punishment, runs away into the forest.

CHAPTER IV

Free From Bonds.

There was a low moaning of the wind in the spruce tops as Kazan slunk off into the blackness and mystery of the forest. For hours he lay near the camp, his red and blistered eyes gazing steadily at the tent wherein the terrible thing had happened a little while before.

He knew now what death was. He could tell it farther than man. He could smell it in the air. And he knew that there was death all about him, and that he was the cause of it. He lay on his belly in the deep snow and shivered, and the three-quarters of him that was dog whined in a grief-stricken way, while the quarter that was wolf still revealed itself menacingly in his fangs, and in the vengeful glare of his eyes.

Three times the man—his master—came out of the tent, and shouted loudly. "Kazan—Kazan—Kazan!"

Three times the woman came with him. In the firelight Kazan could see her shining hair streaming about her, as he had seen it in the tent, when he had leaped up and killed the other man. In her blue eyes there was the same wild terror, and her face was white as the snow. "Kazan—Kazan—Kazan!"—and all that part of him that was dog, and not wolf, trembled joyously at the sound of her voice, and he almost crept in to take his beating. But fear of the club was the greater, and he held back, hour after hour, until now it was silent again in the tent, and he could no longer see their shadows, and the fire was dying down.

Cautiously he crept out from the thick gloom, working his way on his belly toward the packed sledge, and what remained of the burned logs. Beyond that sledge, hidden in the darkness of the trees, was the body of the man he had killed, covered with a blanket. Thorpe, his master, had dragged it there.

He lay down, with his nose to the warm coals and his eyes leveled between his forepaws, straight at the closed tent-flap. He meant to keep awake, to watch, to be ready to slink off into the forest at the first movement there. But a warmth was rising from out of the gray ash of the fire-bed, and his eyes closed. Twice—three times—he fought himself back into watchfulness; but the last time his eyes came only half open, and closed heavily again.

In his sleep he was leaping again at the end of his chain. His jaws snapped like castanets of steel—and the sound awakened him, and he sprang to his feet, his spine as stiff as a brush, and his snarling fangs bared like ivory knives. He had awakened just in time. There was movement in the tent. His master was awake, and if he did not escape—

He sped swiftly into the thick spruce, and paused, flat and hidden, with only his head showing from behind a tree. He knew that his master would not spare him. Three times Thorpe had beaten him for snapping at McCready. The last time he would have shot him if the girl had not saved him. And now he had torn McCready's throat. He had taken the life from him, and his master would not spare him. Even the woman could not save him.

Kazan was sorry that his master had returned, dazed and bleeding, after he had torn McCready's jugular. Then he would have had her always. She would have loved him. She did love him. And he would have followed her, and fought for her always, and died for her when the time came. But Thorpe had come in from the forest again, and Kazan had slunk away quickly—for Thorpe meant to him what all men meant to him now: the club, the whip and the strange things that spit fire and death. And now—

Thorpe had come out from the tent. It was approaching dawn, and in his hand he held a rifle. A moment later the girl came out, and her hand caught the man's arm. They looked toward the thing covered by the blanket. Then she spoke to Thorpe and he suddenly straightened and threw back his head. "It-o-o-o-o—Kazan—Kazan—Kazan!" he called.

A shiver ran through Kazan. The man was trying to investigate him back. He had in his hand the thing that killed.

"Kazan—Kazan—Ka-a-a-a-zan!" he shouted again.

Kazan sneaked cautiously back from the tree. He knew that distance meant nothing to the cold thing of death that Thorpe held in his hand. He turned his head once, and whined softly, and for an instant a great longing filled his reddened eyes as he saw the last of the girl.

He knew, now, that he was leaving her forever, and there was an ache in his heart that had never been there before, a pain that was not of the club or whip, of cold or hunger, but which was greater than them all, and which filled him with a desire to throw back his head and cry out his loneliness to the gray emptiness of the sky.

Back in the camp the girl's voice quivered.

"He is gone."

The man's strong voice choked a little.

"Yes, he is gone. He knew—and I didn't. I'd give—a year of my life—if I hadn't whipped him yesterday and last night. He won't come back."

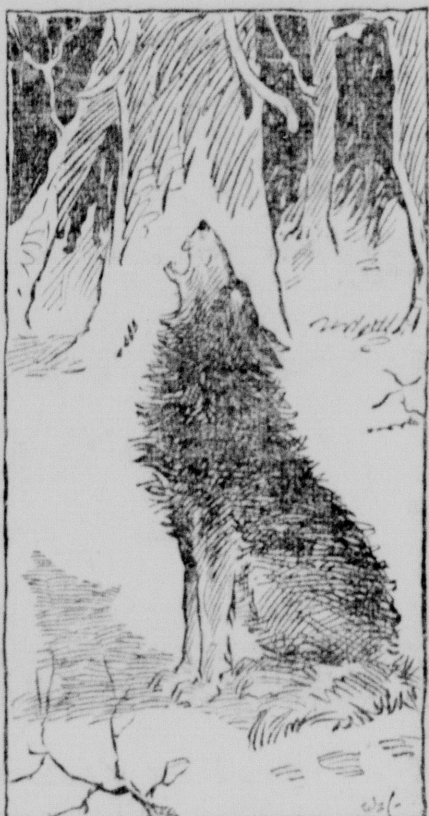

Isabel Thorpe's hand tightened on his arm.

"He will!" she cried. "He won't leave me. He loved me. If he was savage and terrible. And he knows that I love him. He'll come back—"

"Listen!"

From deep in the forest there came a long wailing howl, filled with a plaintive sadness. It was Kazan's farewell to the woman.

After that cry Kazan sat for a long time on his haunches, sniffing the long freedom of the air, and watching the deep black pits in the forest about him, as they faded away before dawn. Now and then, since the day the traders had first bought him and put him into sledge-traces away over on the Mackenzie, he had often thought of his freedom longingly, the wolf blood in him urging him to take it. But he had never quite dared. It thrilled him now. There were no clubs here, no whips, none of the man-beasts whom he had first learned to distrust, and then to hate. It was his misfortune—that quarter-strain of wolf; and the clubs, instead of subduing him, had added to the savagery that was born in him. Men had been his worst enemies. They had beaten him time and again until he was almost dead. They called him "bad," and stepped wide of him, and never missed the chance to snap a whip over his back. His body was covered with scars they had given him.

He had never felt kindness, or love, until the first night the woman had put her warm little hand on his head, and had snuggled her face close down to his, while Thorpe—her husband—had cried out in horror. He had almost buried his fangs in her white flesh, but in an instant her gentle touch, and her sweet voice, had sent through him that wonderful thrill that was his first knowledge of love. And now it was a man who was driving him from her, away from the hand that had held him a club or a whip, and he growled as he trotted deeper into the forest.

He came to the edge of a swamp as day broke. For a time he had been filled with a strange uneasiness, and light did not quite dispel it. At last he was free of men. He could detect nothing that reminded him of their hated presence in the air. But neither could he smell the presence of other dogs, of the sledge, the fire, of companionship and food, and so far back as he could remember they had always been a part of his life.

Here it was very quiet. The swamp lay in a hollow between two ridge mountains, and the spruce and cedar grew low and thick—so thick that there was almost no snow under them, and the day was like twilight. Two things he began to miss more than all others—food and company. Both the wolf and the dog that was in him demanded the first, and that part of him that was dog longed for the latter. To both desires the wolf blood that was strong in him rose responsibly. It told him that somewhere in this silent world between the two ridges there was companionship, and that all he had to do to find it was to sit back on his haunches, and cry out his loneliness. More than once something trembled in his deep chest, rose in his throat, and ended there in a whine. It was the wolf howl, not yet quite born. Food came more easily than voice. Toward midday he cornered a big white rabbit under a log, and killed it. The warm flesh and blood was better than frozen fish, or tallow and bran, and the feast he had gave him confidence. That afternoon he chased many rabbits, and killed two more. Until now, he had never known the delight of pursuing and killing at will, even though he did not eat all he killed.

But there was no fight in the rabbits. They died too easily. They were very sweet and tender to eat, when he was hungry, but the first thrill of killing them passed away after a time. He wanted something bigger. He no longer slunk along as if he were afraid, or as if he wanted to remain hidden. He held his head up. His back bristled. His tail swung free and bushy, like a wolf's. Every hair in his body quivered with the electric energy of life and action. He traveled north and west. It was the call of early days—the days away up on the Mackenzie. The Mackenzie was a thousand miles away.

He came upon many trails in the snow that day, and sniffed the scents left by the hoofs of moose and caribou, and the fur-padded feet of a lynx. He followed a fox, and the trail led him to a place shut in by tall spruce, where the snow was beaten down and reddened with blood. There was an owl's head, feathers, wings and entrails lying here, and he knew that there were other hunters abroad besides himself.

Toward evening he came upon tracks in the snow that were very much like his own. They were quite fresh, and there was a warm scent about them that made him whine, and filled him again with that desire to fall back upon his haunches and send forth the wolf-cry. This desire grew stronger in him as the shadows of night deepened in the forest. He had traveled all day, but he was not tired. There was something about night, now that there were no men near, that exhilarated him strangely. The wolf blood in him ran swifter and swifter. Tonight it was clear. The sky was filled with stars. The moon rose. And at last he settled back in the snow and turned his head straight up to the spruce tops, and the wolf came out of him in a long mournful cry which quivered through the still night for miles.

For a long time he sat and listened after that howl. He had found voice—a voice with a strange new note in it, and it gave him still greater confidence. He had expected an answer, but none came. He had traveled in the face of the wind, and as he howled, a bull moose crashed through the scrub timber ahead of him, his horns rattling against the trees like the tattoo of a clear birch club as he put distance between himself and that cry.

Twice Kazan howled before he went on, and he found joy in the practice of that new note. He came then to the foot of a rough ridge, and turned up out of the swamp to the top of it. The stars and the moon were nearer to him there, and on the other side of the ridge he looked down upon a great sweeping plain, with a frozen lake glistening in the moonlight, and a white river leading from it off into timber that was neither so thick nor so black as that in the swamp.

And then every muscle in his body grew tense, and his blood leaped. From far off in the plain there came a cry. It was his cry—the wolf-cry. His jaws snapped. His white fangs gleamed, and he growled deep in his throat. He wanted to reply, but some strange instinct urged him not to. That instinct of the wild was already becoming master of him. In the air, in the whispering of the spruce tops, in the moon and the stars themselves, there breathed a spirit which told him that what he had heard was the wolf-cry, but that it was not the wolf call.

The other came an hour later, clear and distinct, that same wailing howl at the beginning—but ending in a staccato of quick sharp yelps that stirred his blood at once into a fiery excitement that it had never known before. The same instinct told him that this was the call—the hunt-cry. It urged him to come quickly. A few moments later it came again, and this time there was a reply from close down along the foot of the ridge, and another from so far away that Kazan could scarcely hear it. The hunt-pack was gathering for the night chase; but Kazan sat quiet and trembling.

He was not afraid, but he was not ready to go. The ridge seemed to split the world for him. Down there it was new, and strange, and without men. From the other side something seemed to call him back, and suddenly he turned his head and gazed back through the moonlit space to him, and whined. It was the dog's blue howl. The woman was back there. He could hear her voice. He could feel the touch of her soft hand. He could see the laughter in her face and eyes, the laughter that had made him warm and happy. She was calling to him through the forests, and he was torn between desire to answer that call, and desire to go down into the plain. For he could also see many men waiting for him with clubs, and he could hear the cracking of whips, and feel the sting of their lashes.

For a long time he remained on the top of the ridge that divided his world,

This mammoth factory was designed and equipped for building this single type. Every machine and method aims to build it economically.

All this work has been done under John W. Bate, the famous efficiency expert. It has cut our factory cost in two. It has enabled us to build an extra-grade car for less than anyone else in the world.

The savings show in extra strength, in extra features, in extra luxury and beauty. We ask you to see the result.

31 Unique Features

The latest Mitchell has 31 extras, which nearly all cars omit. Things like a power tire pump, dashboard engine primer, reversible headlights, new-type control.

Come see them. No car then will seem complete without them.

It has many added luxuries and beauties. We have this year added 24 per cent to the cost of finish, upholstery and trimming. That is all paid for by savings in our new body plant.

See these new-style bodies—all Mitchell-designed. See how we finish and equip them. There are no others like them.

100% Over-Strength

In these new Mitchells, every vital part is twice as strong as need be. Our margin of safety—once 50 per cent—has been doubled lately, to give you a lifetime car.

TWO SIZES

Mitchell—a roomy, 7-passenger Six, with 127-inch wheelbase and a highly-developed 48-horsepower motor.

Price $1460, f. o. b. Racine

Mitchell Junior—a 5-passenger Six on similar lines, with 120-inch wheelbase and a 40-horsepower motor— $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch smaller bore.

Price $1150, f. o. b. Racine

Also six styles of enclosed and convertible bodies. Also new Club Roadster

Over 440 parts are built of toughened steel. All important parts are oversize. Parts which get a major strain are built of Chrome-Vanadium. Gears are tested for 50,000 pounds per tooth. The springs—Bate cantilevers—have never yet been broken. Not a single one. Yet they make the Mitchell ride like an aeroplane.

These Bate-built Mitchells—numbers of them—have run over 200,000 miles. About 40 years of ordinary service.

Costs Us $4,000,000

The Mitchell extras, on this year's output, will cost us $4,000,000. They would be impossible in cars at these prices without our factory efficiency.

They are things which others do not offer. Things they cannot offer at our prices until they use Bate methods. See what they mean to you.

Also Mitchell Junior

Men content with a 5-passenger car will this year find Mitchell Junior. A roomy car—120-inch wheelbase. A powerful car—40 horsepower. And the price is $1150, f. o. b. Racine.

So you can now get the size you want, and the price you want, in Mitchells. Come and see both sizes.

Amazing Vogue of Golf.

Twenty-five years ago there was as much golf played in the United States as there is baseball played in the central villages of the Fiji Islands, which is to say practically none whatever. Yet there are today more than 3,200 golf courses, covering more than 300,000 acres, inhabited by something like 900,000 players of both sexes from twelve to eighty years of age. In the broad span of sport no one can recall such a development as this in so short a time.—Grantland Rice in New York Tribune.

Nervous Children.

In seeking a remedy for nervous and delicate children very often you will find that it is sleep and not drugs that is needed.

In a sense sleep is really more important than food. The sick often survive on very little to eat, and the results from medicine are not always successful, but sleep is what is depended upon to regain health and strength.

Sleep is the secret of prolonged youth. There is nothing more beneficial to health or that can compare in value to natural and refreshing sleep.

A MAN'S PRAYER.

Teach me that sixty minutes make an hour, sixteen ounces one pound and one hundred cents one dollar.

Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience—without a gun under my pillow and unthought by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain.

Grant, I beseech Thee, that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in doing thereof I may not stick the gaff where it does not belong.

Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and the rustle of unholy skirts.

Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own.

Guide me so that each night when I look across the dinner table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, that I will have nothing to conceal.

Keep me young enough to laugh at my children and to lose myself in their play.

And when comes the smell of flowers and the tread of soft steps, and the crunching of the hearer's wheels in the gravel, out in front of my place make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple: "Here Lies a Man."

Homer McKee, in Publicity Magazine

Palestine.

When one thinks of the great event that have taken place in the Holy Land, the multitude of cities, villages and towns, the countless millions who have been born there and whose bones now lie in its rock ribbed hills, the small dimensions of Palestine are almost startling. West of the Jordan where most of the historic events took place, there are only 3,800 square miles, including all the geographical divisions now called Palestine. Including the land both east and west of the Jordan, the total area is 9,840 square miles. The length of Palestine from north to south is about 150 miles. It varies in breadth from twenty-three to eighty miles.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Looks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Nurses, when you need record sheets you will find them at the Dixon Evening Telegraph office.

N. W. Beal, 620 College Ave., Dixon, says: "All I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago holds good and I am glad to confirm my statement. For a long time, I had kidney trouble and I showed itself in various ways. I had rheumatic twinges and my back was stiff and lame and when bending over, I could hardly straighten. When I was suffering intensely, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me wonderful relief in a short time. I still use them occasionally, thus keeping my kidneys in good shape."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Beal had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

The surest way to get hated is to get rich.

Loyalty stands true and judges afterward.

A girl knows a man loves her if she wants him to.

You can cut wisdom teeth without clipping coupons.

Speaking of tongues—a woman can seldom hold her own.

A wife can't give her family notice the way the cook can.

One reason so many people stay married is they have to.

The proof that God created the world is its motherhood.

Being good gets you into such fearfully boring company.

More women ought to go to market and more men to church.

You might like your enemies if they were in their graves.

If you want the most cheerful companion pick money to be it.

Nobody knows his friends the way they think they know him.

It's easy to admire brains; it's next to impossible to love them.

The reason women have to suffer so much is they don't deserve it.

When a woman's children are her jewels they cost just the same.

A woman's text for a letter is pen, ink, paper and a postage stamp.

What a girl can't possibly follow is her parents' advice about a man.

If money could multiply like misery everybody would be a millionaire.

Money can give a man a reputation for brains when nothing else can.

A girl will even fool herself so as to keep in practice at doing it to men.

A man takes an awful lot of chances to quit cards and go to speculating.

No girl ever had a curly head without wanting a shoulder to rest it on.

Judgment doesn't do so very much harm if you don't invest money on it.

Good deeds are sometimes performed unless they happen to cost money.

Next to money, sentiment most keeps happy families from breaking up.

It's unfair to a college graduate to keep on treating him that way all his life.

A really good man would suffer fearfully from his utter lack of companionship.

There's hardly anything a man can't get cured of nowadays except selfishness.

Too many precautions usually omit the one that would have been sufficient.

Love isn't much more foolish than lots of other things, only it shows more.

You can tell a wig a woman wears by the emphatic way she acts as if it wasn't.

The more a widow knows about men the more she acts as if she had to learn it.

Optimism is being able to keep on hoping after proof that you are a fool to do it.

Good judgment is no more sure all the time than good legs are on slippery ice.

There is a short cut to every kind of misery; to happiness all the roads are long.

A man has to be conceited about something if it's only the big shoes he wears.

Everybody seems to have a lot to do about running the government but one voters.

A man has to feel some pride about his ancestors even if it's that no never had any.

If the weather favors a man in his business he thinks it's because he's so smart at it.

Even the weather is a satisfactory topic of conversation compared to your relatives.

The longest way home is when a man's wife has her relatives there waiting for him.

The exception that proves the rule could prove anything else with about as much reason.

The course of true love doesn't run smooth before marriage, and it grows rougher afterward.

The successful thing about faith is now it can go along without there being any ground for it.

A woman likes to take foreign tours so she can talk about them, if they are only around the block.

It takes the genius of a pretty girl to make a man afraid to kiss her when she's dying for him to do it.

If a man could buy cigars for his wife instead of flowers it wouldn't seem an extravagance at all.

If there are no curling irons in heaven the women there must have some lively curling over it.

The more of a hurry a man is in to get married the longer time he has afterward to wonder why he was.

Unfortunately we do not learn the value of staying where we belong till we have wandered where we don't.

Where a woman has such good sense is in her perfect willingness to buy a good figure if it didn't come to her naturally.

It's a great comfort to a woman who has lost her ideals in marriage to think how many she had when she was engaged.

It takes a woman with a blister on her foot from a tight shoe to smile sweetly as if it were a diamond sunburst in her hair.

It's just a superstition that a man learns to be a good fisherman by being a great liar; that's the way he really learns not to be.

Nearly every man can take more pride in having seen a chorus girl show than in understanding the constitution of his country.

If a man will always make love to his wife he may never get to be more than a clerk but she will know that he deserves to be president.

FACTS FOR 1917 GARDENERS

"Yield, quality and early maturity are three aims in successful vegetable growing. No matter how large the yields, unless the quality is high and of the first grade, high prices on the market are not easily secured. Good seed, properly planted, and a well prepared seed bed followed by thorough and careful cultivation of the crop assists very materially in producing largest yields of high quality, early matured vegetables," says a well-known truck gardener of Chicago.

"Yet," continues this man, "if there is not a large supply of readily available properly balanced plantfood in the soil, neither large yields nor high quality goods can be produced."

Well rotted stable manure is the old standby of all truck gardeners. This should be carefully and thoroughly worked into the seed bed during the fall, winter or early spring. While manure is considered by many to be an ideal plantfood it is low in phosphoric acid in proportion to the nitrogen and potash that it carries. This usually results in too much vine growth in proportion to the fruit. Consequently, it should be supplemented with a fertilizer analyzing high in phosphoric acid. Phosphoric acid increases the quantity and improves the quality of all truck crops, especially tomatoes, sweet corn, peas, beans, pickles and cucumbers. The Chicago truck growers have found that it pays them handsomely to supplement all manure with a suitable truck or garden fertilizer. This may be applied through the fertilizer attachment of any drill used in putting out the crop, or broadcasted and worked into the soil before planting the seed. It is also advisable to occasionally work a handful of fertilizers around the plants after they come up. Melvin Ryder.

What the LaCour System Means.

The LaCour System of Healing is a well rounded system of drugless and knifeless treatment. It has evolved thru years of experience, treating hundreds of people diseased in all manner of ways. Today it stands unexcelled in thoroughness and practicability. It is to the combination of many different treatments in a unique and unified system that we attribute its unparalleled success. Every one, except the man practicing a narrow one line treatment as a cure-all, acknowledges the fact that no one therapeutic agent will remedy all disease. For example, I have been known as a drugless healer for years. But as those know who have received treatment at my hands, I have not made use only of a few dogmatic principles but have always employed the term in its broadest sense. To Osteopathy and Chiropractic I have added Spondylotherapy, Electrotherapy, Phototherapy, etc., and a special system of diagnosis. All devices found in my office are inventions of modern science; they have been carefully tested and selected. They represent the utmost that science offers to diseased humanity. To do good work the artisan must have true and accurate tools. How much more must this be assured in dealing with the intricate and delicate human body? An attempt to stop the ravages of disease is less sensible than employing your thumbnail as a screw driver. Realizing this truth I have made my equipment complete in every detail. It is this feature that makes me state that I am enabled to cope successfully with all forms of curable disease.

WOMAN JAILED FOR RETORT TO GERMAN

A well authenticated incident which occurred recently during a German court martial in Belgium has just become known in Paris. M. Paul Terlinde, burgomaster of Rixensart, appeared before the court charged with shielding a wounded Frenchman, for which he was condemned to twelve months' imprisonment.

His daughter, Baroness de Coninck, a young married woman, whose husband is at the front, was present at the hearing. A German officer sat down beside her, saying, "I believe, madame, I have met you before."

Baroness de Coninck replied: "You are mistaken. I don't know you, sir."

The German persisted, saying, "Perhaps I am mistaken, but you greatly resemble an English woman whom I knew well."

"Evidently you mean Miss Cavell," retorted the Baroness.

For this answer she was sentenced to one month in prison.

"Not a Cent For Tribute."

The saying "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute" is attributed to General Pinckney, who was minister to France in the early part of this century. History says that when General Pinckney was informed that the payment of a certain sum might settle the diplomatic suit then existing between France and the United States he indignantly replied, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute!"

It is said, however, that long afterward, upon the general being asked by members of a club to which he belonged whether he had ever made such a remark, he replied, "No; my answer was not a flourish like that, but simply, 'Not a penny, not a penny!'"

A Matter of Time.

"What's the use of complaining because eggs are up a few cents," a farmer asked the other day, "when it takes a perfectly good hen in the most favorable circumstances twenty-four hours to lay one?"

"If you are going to determine prices by the time consumed in production," said a college graduate from Boston who was present, "what are you going to charge for a chicken when it takes 504 hours for a hen to hatch?"—Argonaut.
